Dear Mr. Weisberg:

Your manuscript is, as you promised, an impressively documented rebuttal to William Manchester's version of the assassination, and it certainly merits publication and wide readership. But I'm afraid that, as I indicated might be the case, it's the managing editor's feeling that the 63 columns we devoted to the Lane interview--however flawed his evidence--should be all the space PLAYBOY should give to the assassination. Sorry to disappoint you.

Why don't you offer this piece either to Ramparts or Fact? I should think they'd leap at the chance to print it.

Best,

Murray Fisher
